UN AIDE AWAITING ARAB DECISION

A-Panel Presses Study Of Deadly Radiation; More Funds Needed

WASHINGTON, June 8—The Atomic Energy Commission, fearful of atomic warfare in the next decade, is attempting to find some way of lessening the impact of deadly radioactive radiation upon the nation.

Chairman David E. Lilienthal revealed that studies are underway on the effects of radiation of animal tissue. Studies are being held at the University of Rochester, but Lilienthal stated that they require "a great deal of research in many places in medicine and biology to determine what the effects will be." He pleaded for further funds to permit the work to go on.

Lilienthal's disclosure was made before a House appropriations subcommittee in confidential testimony made public today.

The appropriations committee approved $651,850,000 in new cash and new contract authorizations for atomic energy for the 1949 fiscal year beginning July 1.

This was a reduction of $48,150,000 in the fiscal amount requested. Another $250 million in cash was included for payment of this year's contracts which were previously authorized by Congress.

The committee emphasized that the cuts were to be made "without affecting the military phases" of the commission's work. It estimated that the cash appropriation was an increase of $326,850,000 over those for the current 1948 fiscal year.

Lilienthal told the subcommittee that the commission felt it was its duty to develop "such means as may be found for the amelioration of the injuries that might result from an atomic attack."

He added that present information on this vital subject was "woefully and tragically lacking."

In other testimony, commission witnesses, including General Manager Carroll L. Wilson, disclosed:

1. Atomic weapons of "a radically different type from any now perfected" may result from (Continued on Page Two)

WAA Abolishment Urged By Group

WASHINGTON, June 8—The house appropriations committee today voted more than $5 billion for the nation's veterans for the coming year but directed that "boondoggling" be cut from GI benefits.

The committee allotted $5,125,309,000 for the Veterans Administration for the 1949 fiscal year beginning July 1, a reduction of $354,600,000 in the amount requested and $1,847,148,080 less than the amount furnished for the current fiscal year.

The greatest cut—$200 million—was for training under the GI Bill of Rights of an avocational or recreational nature, which was ordered eliminated after July 1.

The action was taken after the Budget Bureau complained that some $200 million was being wasted on such courses as ballroom dancing and pleasure flying in which the GIs receiving the training had no intention of making a profession of it.

IN OTHER action taken by the committee in reporting the (Continued on Page Two)

Boating Trip Ends When Gear Is Stolen Here

The five-day boating and camping trip of Kenneth Canfield of Columbus came to an end Monday.

Canfield told Circleville police Tuesday that he and a friend had started out from Columbus on the Scioto river five days ago in a five-man rubber raft. He also had a pup tent, extra clothes and other camping gear.

The trip ended, however, when the Columbus man deflated his raft at Red Bridge on Island Road Monday night and came to Circleville.

The man said when he returned to the place where he had cached his supplies, he found nothing.

The return trip to Columbus was by highway-hitchhiking.

Police said they did not know the man's original destination nor the identity of the friend.

Kiernan's ONE MAN'S OPINION

Science has made another lunge forward. We now have a telescope in California so large that it takes three men to look at Venus.

I hear that in the first test an American colonel peering through the eye-piece out over the Pacific found a Soviet admiral peering back.

It was one of the shortest "cold eye wars" on record.

President Truman is going to put his eye to the telescope this week. He's particularly interested in observing any stars that might happen to fall on Alabama.

Pit Owners Eye 'Offer'

Dickering Stalled By UMW Demand

WASHINGTON, June 8—Bituminous mine owners today considered making an "offer" to John L. Lewis on a new 1948 soft coal wage contract.

Management negotiators weighed such a move during a 24-hour recess in the court-ordered bargaining talks between Lewis and the coal industry.

The contract discussions were to resume about mid-afternoon today.

Operators had little hope, however, that any proposal they might make would find favor with the union. Lewis demanded certain welfare fund guarantees "as a condition precedent to a new contract."

The mine owners have stated they do not intend to grant these guarantees.

KEY ISSUE in the contract dispute is the 1947 UMW welfare and pension fund now totaling $39 million and financed by a 10-cents a ton royalty on coal.

Lewis wants pension and welfare payments started from this fund. He also demands that the 1947 fund take over $20 million worth of obligations incurred (Continued on Page Two)

Michael, Anne To Wed Thursday

ATHENS, June 8—An official court announcement said today that King Paul of Greece will be best man at the wedding Thursday of Romanian King Michael to Princess Anne of Bourbon-Parma.

The couple will be married in the morning in the Athens palace.

The announcement said that no official program on the ceremony will be issued since the marriage will be "celebrated in the strictest privacy."

Archbishop Damaskinos of the Greek orthodox church will officiate.

Reds Must Move

BERLIN, June 8—British-Soviet relations in Berlin deteriorated further today following a request that the Russians quit the studios of Radio Berlin in the British sector.

Man, 99, Claims No Secret For His Long Life

Walter Gray, former Washington Township horse and mule trainer, Monday celebrated his 99th birthday in Circleville Home and Hospital by leaving the confines of his room and basking in the warm June sunshine on the front porch.

When asked what he attributed to his long existence, Gray replied, "I dunno. I just kept on livin' and livin' I guess."

The near centenarian claims he "never went in for alcohol or tobacco" in all his life, but does not believe that is the reason for his long life.

"I used to be quite a fighter and wrestler in my day," he reminisced, "course I'm a little too brittle for that now," Gray added.

The celebrant isn't worried about his future, either. He prophesied:

"If the next 99 years are as easy as the first, I'll make it."

Nervous Mayor Ties First Knot

Mayor Thurman I. Miller turned in his first job as Cupid's No. 1 assistant Monday afternoon when he married a Columbus couple in his offices.

After ransacking the office for the proper text for the ceremony, William Davis and Georgia Stepp of Columbus were read their vows by Miller.

Lloyd Salter and William Greenlee were witnesses to the first knot-tying handled by Hizzoner.

Mayor Miller was convinced Tuesday the knot would stay tied although he reportedly admitted the bride was "not half as nervous as the mayor."

Commies Stalk From Assembly

PARIS, June 8—Communist members of the French national assembly walked out in a body today when a Rightist deputy questioned their loyalty to France.

The Rightist member of the French People's Rally also questioned the impartiality of special courts who are trying alleged collaborators. He asserted the courts dealt out Communist justice.

A number of insults were exchanged by Leftists and Rightists.

Aid Battle Now Raging

House, Senate At Odds On Issue

WASHINGTON, June 8—The global aid funds fight settled down today to a House-Senate battle.

Sen. Vandenberg (R) Mich., GOP international affairs spokesman, prepared to spearhead a bipartisan drive tomorrow to restore for policy reasons, at least, the two billions the House knocked out of the program.

At the same time, the chairman of the House appropriations committee, John Taber, (R) N. Y., announced he would ignore the Vandenberg plea.

Taber declared that if the Senate appropriations committee gets up-to-date information on the improvement in Europe's food outlook it will concur in the House action.

Vandenberg picked up some Senate GOP support, and it remained uncertain how strong a fight critics of the administration's foreign aid programs will make.

GOP POLICY Chairman Taft, (R) Ohio, who last winter sought to trim the authorization, declined to reveal his plans. Taft and Vandenberg found themselves in anomalous positions (Continued on Page Two)

Wallace Group Filing Appeal

COLUMBUS, June 8—The Wallace-for-President committee appealed to the state supreme court today from the action of Secretary of State Edward J. Hummel in disqualifying it from the November ballot.

The attorney for the committee was George McMonagle, who is prominent in Cleveland Young Republican circles.

Hummel disqualified Wallace from the ballot on the ground that he had not complied fully with a state requirement for the filing of an anti-Communist affidavit.

PORTLAND, Ore., June 8—Two more bodies were taken from the Vanport flood wreckage today, raising the known death total of that disaster to four.

Alien Draft Issue Being Modified

Anti-Poll Tax Measure OK'd

WASHINGTON, June 8—Sen. Lodge, (R) Mass., agreed today to modify his alien enlistment amendment to the Senate draft bill in an effort to assure adoption of the proposal.

As the Senate was informed that it faces another night session, Lodge cut from 50,000 to 25,000 the number of qualified aliens he proposes for enlistment in the Army over the next two years.

The cut was suggested by Sen. Tydings, (D) Md., who said a number of senators would support the smaller figure as a "trial" operation. Lodge readily agreed.

Acting Majority Leader Wherry, (R) Nebr., told his colleagues that action on the draft bill's pending amendments would continue all day and "into tonight."

Lodge's amendment was the first proposal called up after last night's session in which Republicans squeezed through the surprised adoption of an anti- (Continued on Page Two)

5 Men Injured In Train Crash In Union Station

COLUMBUS, June 8—Charles W. Donker of Baltimore, Md., and E. D. Johnson of Jennings, Mo., were in critical condition today as the result of a train crash last night in the Columbus Union terminal which injured five.

Officials immediately launched an investigation to determine how the last two cars of the Pennsylvania Railroad's Spirit of St. Louis cut loose, jumped the track and rammed the locomotive of another passenger train of the same line standing in the yards.

Johnson suffered fractures of both legs and a severe laceration of the lower abdomen. Donker suffered a crushed pelvis.

Current Rains Bring No Frowns From Farmers

More rain and moderate temperatures Tuesday definitely put to flight the spectre of an early Summer drought in Ohio.

Pickaway counties were not at all disappointed by the muddy skies and slow underfooting. Many local farmers put a half-million dollar value tag on Sunday's rain and were increasingly pleased by the Monday night shower.

Thundershowers over the entire state Tuesday caused much more good than damage, although there were scattered reports of minor destruction due to lightning and strong winds.

Northeastern Ohio, which missed out on the Sunday night rainfall, had its full measure of moisture Monday night, with Perry reporting 1.01 inches, Cleveland had .36 of an inch to ease the arid situation in that area.

Weather bureau forecasters said that the sky should begin to clear Tuesday, with only a few scattered showers. Sunny and mild weather was forecast for Wednesday.

air and parts blown 100 yards away to a grove of trees. After the explosion the clubhouse, long popular as the rendezvous of film stars, caught fire.

Despite the efforts of 13 fire fighting companies, the clubhouse was completely gutted by the blaze. Damage was estimated at $500,000.

SOLE CLUB member injured was Clarence Meyers of Los Angeles. He suffered back injuries. Others injured, all club employees, were:

James Rogers, 55, caddy; James Wanecek, 50, gardener; G. M. Friday, 45 grounds employee; Emil Lepp, 41, a cook; Joseph Steichen, chief clerk.

Olin Dutra, golf professional at the club, and former National Open champion, was blown to the ground by the blast. He was not injured.

He described the blast as "just a charge of dynamite going off." Scores of trees in the vicinity of the clubhouse were blown down. The explosion was so powerful that pieces of wood were found almost completely driven through tree trunks.

It was the second time that the popular rendezvous of film celebrities had been destroyed by fire. In May, 1944, a fire razed the clubhouse. The structure was rebuilt.

Only two weeks ago, ground breaking ceremonies were held for a new $500,000 building.

Four-Week Truce May Come Soon

Bernadotte To Get Reply Tomorrow

CAIRO, June 8—It is expected that a final decision by the Arabs on the suggested four-week truce will be arrived at during the day.

After announcement was made that the Arab League principals are conferring today, Egyptian Premier Mahmoud Nokrashy Pasha said that the Arab reply will be handed to Count Bernadotte tomorrow.

The UN mediator said he had presented a "straight forward" plan to both the provisional government of Israel and the Arab leaders yesterday and expects definite answers within 48 hours.

A high Arab official insisted today that the projected four-week truce must exclude any and all political and military changes.

Fawzi El Molki, foreign minister of Trans-Jordan, made this definite stipulation on leaving Cairo for Amman to report to King Abdullah.

HE SAID that the question of supplying Jerusalem with food and other essentials—demanded by Israel as a truce condition—was discussed at length by Arab leaders.

In Damascus, Syria, well-informed circles believe that pressure by the great powers makes it likely that the Arabs will agree to the truce.

It was understood the Arabs (Continued on Page Two)

21 Yank Officers Selected For Zion Truce Team

WASHINGTON, June 8—The State department announced today that the United States Palestine truce observation team will be made up of seven officers from the Army, Navy and Air Force.

The United States, France and Belgium will each supply a 21 truce observation detail. The seven American naval officers will leave at once for Palestine.

The other members of the U. S. team will be selected in the European theatre and will depart immediately from that area for the Holy Land to observe the cease fire order.

Count Folke Bernadotte of Sweden, the UN mediator in the Palestine war, requested the truce observation squads from the three nations.

Tot Is Killed In Indiana Storm

JEFFERSONVILLE, Ind., June 8—Three persons were in critical condition today after a tornado struck nearby Henryville and killed a small girl.

The dead child was the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Mullin, who were injured last night when the storm ripped into their home where the girl also lived.

State Police Lt. H. H. Mow termed the damage to the town of 1,500 population "extensive."

More Than 400 County Youngsters Attending Vacation Bible Schools

More than 400 Circleville and Pickaway County youngsters have enrolled in Circleville's two Summer Vacation Bible schools.

The Union Vacation Bible school, sponsored by Pickaway County Ministerial Association, reported more than 200 registered for its two-and-a-half-week course in religious instruction given in First Methodist church.

An equal number has been enrolled in the 22nd annual Lutheran Summer Bible school which started a three-week course of study in Trinity Lutheran church.

In addition to having children enrolled from nine churches in Circleville, the Union school reports a good attendance by youngsters from Pickaway County Children's home.

The school program, starting at 9 a. m. Monday through Friday, calls for worship, Bible stories, recreation, workbook study, handicraft and visual education. Classes are dismissed at 11:30 a. m. every class day.

Joseph Rooney, city service director, and his crew have helped the school in its recreational program, seeing that Pickaway street between Watt and Main streets is roped off every morning for a playground.

The Rev. James A. Herbst, pastor of Calvary EUB church and superintendent of the school, said Tuesday the registration of new pupils would continue the balance of the week.

The course of instruction for the youngsters enrolled in the Lutheran school includes visual education, handicraft, dramatics, music, Bible study, worship and recreation.

Youngsters attending the Lutheran school report to the Lutheran parish house at 9 a. m.

Monday through Friday and are dismissed at 11:30 a. m.

The Rev. George Troutman, pastor of the church and head of the school staff, said the program for his school includes a series of Biblical plays to be given at the termination of the school, and such outdoor activities as a bicycle hike and the closing picnic.

An early morning breakfast also has been planned for the children.

Rev. Mr. Troutman said that registration period for the school would close Wednesday. There is no registration fee.

Alien Draft Issue Being Modified

THE LODGE amendment would authorize enlistment of aliens between 18 and 35 who after five years of "satisfactory service" could become American citizens.

Southern Democrats indicated they would not attempt to kill the draft bill by filibuster because of the addition of an anti-poll tax amendment.

The poll tax ban, only civil rights amendment expected to reach a roll call vote, was bitterly fought by Southern Democrats before it was passed 37 to 35 in the closing hours of last night's session. It outlaws the poll tax as a voting qualification for members of the armed services.

Sen. Russell (D. Ga.), who led the fight against the amendment indicated he did not believe its adoption would result in a Southern filibuster that might kill the draft. The action duplicated elimination of the poll tax for draftees during the war.

Russell explained that the Southern bloc in the Senate sympathizes with the idea of freeing soldiers from the tax, but added that the Dixie senators oppose the underlying principle that the federal government has jurisdiction over poll taxes.

The poll tax amendment vote came after six other civil rights amendments offered by Sen. Langer (R. N. D.) and incorporating almost all of President Truman's civil rights proposals, were beaten either by outright rejection or tabling.

The defeated amendments called for elimination of all armed forces segregation and discrimination, either in public or private, and outlawing of lynching as punishment for military personnel.

Permission Asked To Sell Pair Of Properties

Petition to sell property of the Catherine Spangler estate in East Ringgold to pay outstanding debts was filed Monday in Pickaway County probate court by Russell and Chester Spangler, co-administrators.

The record shows outstanding debts at $500 with total value of personal property appraised at $315.38. The Spangler papers revealed the property value to be $2,633.34 as submitted by appraisers.

The petition claims balance of the funds after all debts are paid will be distributed to three other heirs beside the Spanglers, who are administering the estate.

Probate court also received a petition from Kenneth M. Robbins, administrator for the Charles Jackson estate, to sell property in Circleville to pay debts.

Robbins' submitted inventory and appraisal papers on the estate showing total value of $400, all of which was in real estate.

Records show debts amounting to $60.76 with no value in personal property.

Appraisers of the Jackson estate were Luther Bower, Robert Rader and Lawrence Johnson.

Perry Selects New Instructor

Miss Ruth Martin of Clarksville has been employed as teacher of the third and fourth grades of Perry Township school.

have been prompted to accept a compromise by a desire to avoid being branded as an aggressor by the UN.

While decisions were awaited on the latest peace proposals, fighting continued unchecked in the main battle sectors north and south of Tel Aviv.

A dispatch to The London Graphic reported that Egyptian seaborne reinforcements had been landed in Southern Palestine in a maneuver to relieve encircled Arab armored units near Isdud, 22 miles south of Tel Aviv.

The night Egyptian communiqué reported an Arab victory over Jews immediately south of Isdud.

Egyptian bombers meanwhile were said to have carried out a heavy raid on Rehovoth, 15 miles southeast of Tel Aviv.

IN DAMASCUS it was announced that Syrian forces shelled the Jewish settlements of Nebi Yousha and Harawa in Northern Palestine, causing heavy explosions.

Egyptian planes raided Tel Aviv today, severely damaging the offices of Count Bernadotte.

No members of his staff were injured. Earlier, the chief rabbi of Palestine asked that special prayers be said at all synagogues throughout the world to express the grief of Judaism over destruction of most of the synagogues in the old city of Jerusalem.

tions. In the authorization debate, Vandenberg, arguing for the full amount, emphasized that the appropriations committees would adjust the actual sums granted according to the developing needs.

On the other hand, Taft, contending for a reduced authorization, argued on the floor that the authorized amount would become a "moral commitment" for which Congress would be obliged to make full appropriation.

Acting Majority Leader Wherry (R. Neb.), who also had fought for a smaller authorization, likewise withheld a new punch at the program. He said only:

"I believe the appropriations committee is entitled to survey the Marshall Plan figures and see that they are justified, but I would not support any cuts simply to sabotage the program."

U. S., Britain Help Swamp-Red Plan On Expression Of Opinion

LAKE SUCCESS, N. Y., June 8—The United States and the United Kingdom joined forces today with an overwhelming majority to defeat a Russian proposal for "free expression of opinion" submitted to the UN commission on human rights.

The vote was 13 to 4. Yugoslavia, Byelorussia and The Ukraine joined Russia to vote in favor of the proposal.

In introducing his motion, Russian Delegate A. P. Pavlov declared his proposal "would not nationalize or socialize the press as maliciously suggested by some United States newspapers." He asked the members of the commission "not to be intimidated by such distortion."

All that his delegation suggested, Pavlov added, "was that the state give aid to newspapers to obtain sufficient newsprint, machinery and premises."

He added: "As things stand now, the press in the United States is controlled by a handful of powerful press barons and the masses have no means of expression."

"The Hearst organization can propagate black reaction through numerous newspapers, but the trade unions, with millions of members have no press of their own."

"THE AIM of press cartelization in the United States is to suppress competition. In the United States 602 newspapers have gone out of existence because they had been bought up by the press lords."

Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, the American delegate to the commission and its presiding officer, refused to answer the Russian "polemics." She said she was "convinced the commission was well-informed and did not need further education."

The operators flatly refused to agree to the latter demand. They point out that the 1946 fund was set up under government operation of the mine and the industry has had no part in its operation.

Activation of the 1947 fund may have to await a decision by Federal Judge T. Alan Goldsborough.

The jurist, who twice fined Lewis heavily for disobeying anti-strike orders and only last week issued an injunction to compel the union to bargain with the Southern Coal Producers Association, will hear a suit on the miners' pension program June 15.

During the most recent anti-strike injunction against Lewis in April, Judge Goldsborough remarked that if the miners' pension plan was before him it would receive "sympathetic" consideration.

The suit was brought by Ezra Van Horn, operators trustee on the UMW 1947 welfare fund. Van Horn has asked the court to declare invalid a $100 a month pension agreement entered into by Lewis and Sen. Bridges (R. N. H.), neutral trustee on the fund.

annual supply bill—the last of this session—to the floor, the Office of Defense Transportation was ordered abolished Aug. 31, 1948 and its remaining functions turned over to other agencies.

More than $650 million was included for the Atomic Energy Commission and $15,172,100 for the Office of the Housing Expediter, which administers rent controls and veterans housing violations. The committee recommended a reduction of $5,327,900 in this item.

The maritime commission received $68,360,775, a reduction of $26,960,225 in the budget estimate.

The action, which is subject to approval by Congress, was taken in the supplemental independent offices appropriations bill for the 1949 fiscal year beginning July 1.

The bill would transfer all WAA-real property to the Reconstruction Finance Corp.; aircraft and aircraft parts to the Air Force, and all other property to the Bureau of Federal Supply.

The committee ordered that all priorities and preferences authorized by WAA be terminated on Aug. 31 despite the fact that the Surplus Property Act will continue in effect until Dec. 31, 1949.

An inventory of June 30 disclosed that the WAA has real property valued at $2,685,000,000; aircraft and aircraft parts costing $873 million and other property costing $667 million.

Alien Draft Issue Being Modified

THE LODGE amendment would authorize enlistment of aliens between 18 and 35 who after five years of "satisfactory service" could become American citizens.

Southern Democrats indicated they would not attempt to kill the draft bill by filibuster because of the addition of an anti-poll tax amendment.

The poll tax ban, only civil rights amendment expected to reach a roll call vote, was bitterly fought by Southern Democrats before it was passed 37 to 35 in the closing hours of last night's session. It outlaws the poll tax as a voting qualification for members of the armed services.

Sen. Russell (D) Ga., who led the fight against the amendment indicated he did not believe its adoption would result in a Southern filibuster that might kill the draft. The action duplicated elimination of the poll tax for draftees during the war.

Russell explained that the Southern bloc in the Senate sympathizes with the idea of freeing soldiers from the tax, but added that the Dixie senators oppose the underlying principle that the federal government has jurisdiction over poll taxes.

The poll tax amendment vote came after six other civil rights amendments offered by Sen. Langer (R) N. D., and incorporating almost all of President Truman's civil rights proposals, were beaten either by outright rejection or tabling.

The defeated amendments called for elimination of all armed forces segregation and discrimination, either in public or private, and outlawing of lynching as punishment for military personnel.

Permission Asked To Sell Pair Of Properties

Petition to sell property of the Catherine Spangler estate in East Ringgold to pay outstanding debts was filed Monday in Pickaway County probate court by Russell and Chester Spangler, co-administrators.

The record shows outstanding debts at $500 with total value of personal property appraised at $315.38. The Spangler papers revealed the property value to be $2,633.34 as submitted by appraisers.

The petition claims balance of the funds after all debts are paid will be distributed to three other heirs beside the Spanglers, who are administering the estate.

Probate court also received a petition from Kenneth M. Robbins, administrator for the Charles Jackson estate, to sell property in Circleville to pay debts.

Robbins submitted inventory and appraisal papers on the estate showing total value of $400, all of which was in real estate.

Records show debts amounting to $60.76 with no value in personal property.

Appraisers of the Jackson estate were Luther Bower, Robert Rader and Lawrence Johnson.

have been prompted to accept a compromise by a desire to avoid being branded as an aggressor by the UN.

While decisions were awaited on the latest peace proposals, fighting continued unchecked in the main battle sectors north and south of Tel Aviv.

A dispatch to The London Graphic reported that Egyptian seaborne reinforcements had been landed in Southern Palestine in a maneuver to relieve encircled Arab armored units near Isdud, 22 miles south of Tel Aviv.

The night Egyptian communiqué reported an Arab victory over Jews immediately south of Isdud.

Egyptian bombers meanwhile were said to have carried out a heavy raid on Rehovoth, 15 miles southeast of Tel Aviv.

IN DAMASCUS it was announced that Syrian forces shelled the Jewish settlements of Nebi Yousha and Harawa in Northern Palestine, causing heavy explosions.

Egyptian planes raided Tel Aviv today, severely damaging the offices of Count Bernadotte. No members of his staff were injured.

Earlier, the chief rabbi of Palestine asked that special prayers be said at all synagogues throughout the world to express the grief of Judaism over destruction of most of the synagogues in the old city of Jerusalem.

Aid Battle Now Raging

On the other hand, Taft, contending for a reduced authorization, argued on the floor that the authorized amount would become a "moral commitment" for which Congress would be obliged to make full appropriation.

Acting Majority Leader Wherry (R) Neb., who also had fought for a smaller authorization, likewise withheld a new punch at the program. He said only:

"I believe the appropriations committee is entitled to survey the Marshall Plan figures and see that they are justified, but I would not support any cuts simply to sabotage the program."

U. S., Britain Help Swamp-Red Plan On Expression Of Opinion

LAKE SUCCESS, N. Y., June 8—The United States and the United Kingdom joined forces today with an overwhelming majority to defeat a Russian proposal for "free expression of opinion" submitted to the UN commission on human rights.

The vote was 13 to 4. Yugoslavia, Byelorussia and The Ukraine joined Russia to vote in favor of the proposal.

In introducing his motion, Russian Delegate A. P. Pavlov declared his proposal "would not nationalize or socialize the press as maliciously suggested by some United States newspapers." He asked the members of the commission "not to be intimidated by such distortion."

All that his delegation suggested, Pavlov added, "was that the state give aid to newspapers to obtain sufficient newsprint, machinery and premises."

He added: "As things stand now, the press in the United States is controlled by a handful of powerful press barons and the masses have no means of expression."

"The Hearst organization can propagate black reaction through numerous newspapers, but the trade unions, with millions of members, have no press of their own."

The Russian delegate continued: "THE AIM of press cartelization in the United States is to suppress competition."

"In the United States 602 newspapers have gone out of existence because they had been bought up by the press lords."

Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, the American delegate to the commission and its presiding officer, refused to answer the Russian "polemics." She said she was "convinced the commission was well-informed and did not need further education."

The operators flatly refused to agree to the latter demand. They point out that the 1946 fund was set up under government operation of the mine and the industry has had no part in its operation.

Activation of the 1947 fund may have to await a decision by Federal Judge T. Alan Goldsborough.

The jurist, who twice fined Lewis for disobeying anti-strike orders and only last week issued an injunction to compel the union to bargain with the Southern Coal Producers Association, will hear a suit on the miners' pension program June 15.

During the most recent anti-strike injunction against Lewis in April, Judge Goldsborough remarked that if the miners' pension plan was before him it would receive "sympathetic" consideration.

The suit was brought by Ezra Van Horn, operators trustee on the UMW 1947 welfare fund. Van Horn has asked the court to declare invalid a $100 a month pension agreement entered into by Lewis and Sen. Bridges (R) N. H., neutral trustee on the fund.

Vets Housing Probe Sought
WASHINGTON, June 8—Housing Expediter Tighe Woods has asked Congress for nearly $2.5 million to investigate violations of the veterans' housing regulations.

He estimated that "approximately one to two hundred thousand major and minor violations" have been committed.

Woods declared that his office has on hand more than 30,000 complaints from veterans who claim that builders used substitute materials, overcharged the price ceiling, or failed to follow specifications.

annual supply bill—the last of this session—to the floor, the Office of Defense Transportation was ordered abolished Aug. 31, 1948 and its remaining functions turned over to other agencies.

More than $650 million was included for the Atomic Energy Commission and $15,172,100 for the Office of the Housing Expediter, which administers rent controls and veterans housing violations. The committee recommended a reduction of $5,327,900 in this item.

The maritime commission received $68,360,775, a reduction of $26,960,225 in the budget estimate.

The action, which is subject to approval by Congress, was taken in the supplemental independent offices appropriations bill for the 1949 fiscal year beginning July 1.

The bill would transfer all WAA-real property to the Reconstruction Finance Corp.; aircraft and aircraft parts to the Air Force, and all other property to the Bureau of Federal Supply.

The committee ordered that all priorities and preferences authorized by WAA be terminated on Aug. 31 despite the fact that the Surplus Property Act will continue in effect until Dec. 31, 1949.

An inventory of June 30 disclosed that the WAA has real property valued at $2,685,000,000; aircraft and aircraft parts costing $873 million and other property costing $667 million.

Kiwanis Club Told Africa Is Land Of Opportunity

Circleville Kiwanis Club members were told Monday evening that Africa today compares to America in 1870 and that the continent offers the finest opportunities in the world today. Speaker was Gordon Lee, world traveler who lived in South Central Africa from 1937 to 1940.

Lee, who went to Africa to help set up an American automobile assembly plant, said the bulk of his time was spent in the tiny protectorate of Nyasaland.

Despite its smallness, Lee declared that Nyasaland in many respects was further developed in civilization than any other nation in the world.

He cited that in some states in America, there is a ratio of about one auto for every person while in Nyasaland, there is more than one auto for each inhabitant. He declared that there is a higher registration of telephones, radios, refrigerators and swimming pools per person in that country than in any other nation in the world.

HE DECLARED that travel "broadens one's appreciation of the other person's problems. Many of America's ex-servicemen have learned the value of travel for they have returned to their homes after visiting many nations and speak as casually about Rome and Shanghai as they would of the capital of the adjoining state."

He predicted that the day is

The current year's appropriation for the imperial setup was 86 million yen.

Tomatoes Grown in Pots or Boxes

TOMATOES are a must for the Freedom garden and if it is too small for a planting of them they can be grown in pots or boxes on a sun porch or terrace.

A few tomato plants properly cared for in porch containers will produce salad crops for a good-size family, providing, of course, that they can be placed so as to obtain lots of sunshine.

Tomato plants placed in a tub, box or large pot, as illustrated in the accompanying Garden-Graph, can be attractive, as well as useful, on porch or terrace.

The harvest of fruit from a limited number of plants can be multiplied by trimming the plants back to one stem and keeping them well watered. When cut back to one stem the plant should be tied to a stake placed firmly in the container.

The plants should be tied to the stakes in several places as they grow in height, as illustrated. Use strips of cloth and tie loosely.

First make a loop around the stake with the cloth strip, as illustrated, then make a loop around the plant stem, and tie back of the stake. The loop around the stake should be tight to prevent slipping, while that around the plant stalk should be fairly loose to prevent bruising or breaking.

Tomatoes as a Freedom garden crop are well worth a little time spent on their proper care and culture, for they are one of the best sources of vitamin C.

be tied to a stake placed firmly in the container.

The plants should be tied to the stakes in several places as they grow in height, as illustrated. Use strips of cloth and tie loosely.

First make a loop around the stake with the cloth strip, as illustrated, then make a loop around the plant stem, and tie back of the stake. The loop around the stake should be tight to prevent slipping, while that around the plant stalk should be fairly loose to prevent bruising or breaking.

Deceased Vets' Sons Now Eligible For Appointment

Sons of deceased World I or II veterans may now be appointed to Annapolis or West Point without the usual recommendations or endorsements.

According to a bulletin received Monday by Pickaway County Veteran's service office, a new system of presidential appointments is to be inaugurated for the sons of deceased veterans who died in service or from wounds and injuries received from service. The regular congressional appointments will be continued, the new system applying to only war veterans' sons.

James P. Shea, veterans service officer for this county, said that any young man who falls into the new category and who desires an appointment should write either to the adjutant general, Washington, 25, D. C. for West Point appointment, or chief of naval personnel, Navy department, Washington, 25, D. C. for an appointment to the naval academy.

ROOSEVELT'S NEAR MISS

FDR CAME near missing a distinction which later helped him to be named for President. This was the vice-presidential nomination in 1920 on the ticket headed by James M. Cox. While the Democrats had no chance that year, Roosevelt's place on the ticket gave him a chance to tour the country and acquire a large number of friendships which were later of great value. Now it appears from ex-Secretary of State Cordell Hull's memoirs that Roosevelt was not President Wilson's choice for the vice-presidency.

Wilson just before the convention left the presidential nomination open, but suggested three men for the second place. These were Speaker Champ Clark of the House of Representatives, ex-Gov. Judson Harmon of Ohio, and Hull. Hull was not interested, and probably neither were the others. With Cox the candidate, another Ohioan on the ticket would have run counter to the Constitution. Except for that consideration, either Clark or Harmon would have added prestige to the Democratic choices that year, though nothing could have saved them from decisive defeat. Hull, like Roosevelt, was at that time only moderately well known. The time when either name would have added vote-getting ability to a party ticket came later.

FOREIGN LEGION

SOME tempting bits of bait have been dangled this year before the unhappy senators and representatives who would like to avoid voting a military draft to fill the manpower gaps in the defense establishment. One of these is the proposal for a foreign legion.

There have been many foreign legion organizations, some of which have gained fame and glory for themselves and the countries they represented. The term is most likely to call to the American mind the French Foreign Legion, an organization whose fame not all thoughtful Americans would like to see attached to a United States service.

The idea of a foreign legion does not seem entirely appropriate to United States needs. By whatever circumstance American troops enter another country, they are looked upon by the people of that country as representatives of the United States. It is not probable that we would be accurately represented by an army of alien mercenaries and adventurers.

Workmen are now busy improving the acoustics of the Philadelphia hall in which the national conventions will be held. As if the delegates did not suffer enough already. They sit crowded close together in uncomfortable seats in a hot hall for hours at a time. Why make them hear the speeches, too?

Defense Secretary Post
Possibility for Stassen

War Record of Stassen
Qualifies Him for Job

Special to Central Press

WASHINGTON—Political experts agree that Harold E. Stassen's defeat by Gov. Thomas E. Dewey in the Oregon GOP primary has all but eliminated him as a possibility for the Republican presidential nomination.

They make their statement while bearing in mind that Stassen still is claiming more than 300 first ballot delegates. They say Stassen also has almost no chance at all to be vice presidential choice, and that the best the ex-Minnesota governor now can hope for is a Cabinet post in a Republican administration.

That post, the experts say, might be secretary of defense.

The tender of the highly-important post to Stassen by a Republican president would be made to satisfy thousands of Stassen followers who have backed the campaign which made him one of the three top GOP presidential contenders in the pre-convention stretch.

Political though the offer might be, it would place in the office now held by capable James Forrester, a man with ample military background and knowledge.

Stassen served with ability and distinction in the Navy in World War II on the staff of Adm. William F. (Bull) Halsey.

ONE-TERM VANDENBERG?—Experienced Capitol Hill politician discount reports that if Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg (R), Michigan, were tendered the GOP presidential nomination and accepted he would stipulate that he would serve for only one term.

They point out that it would be folly for any president to announce such a decision, and say that he would lose the reins of his party.

For this and many other reasons, observers say, Vandenberg, like any other candidate, would keep his future political plans to himself.

George E. Sokolsky's

These Days

No one has brought charges against John C. Virden, who is an official of the Department of Commerce. It is suggested that because his daughter is an employee of the Tass News Agency and is therefore acceptable to Soviet Russia, the father must suffer for the sins of his child.

What father in a free society can be made responsible for the aberrations of his children? Or what child can be held responsible for the sins of the parent? Our social system is based upon the concept of individual responsibility and obligation.

Each adult human being stands on his own, liable to the law for his personal actions. That has not always been true everywhere. In an older China, someone had to pay for a crime. It could even be a substitute. A son might sacrifice himself for a father; a near relative might be seized to placate the prosecution. In Soviet Russia today, parents or other near relatives might be made to pay the penalty for the political misconduct of one of close kinship. Often when Russians are sent on foreign missions, their children remain under the guardianship of the Soviet government to keep the parent in line.

We have never pursued such a public policy in this country. The American child learns early to go his own way. Republican parents continue to love their Democratic or Socialist children. It might be said that Virden is guilty of having sent his daughter to Sarah Lawrence college, but would he have fared any better had he sent her to Smith or Vassar or Bennington? Or is there any assurance that Miss Virden will not one day return to the fold of loyal and patriotic Americans unacceptable to Soviet Russia? Some of the most valiant fighters against Communism are for many party members and fellow-travelers: Ben Gitlow, J. B. Matthews, Jay Lovestone, Eugene Lyons—only to mention a few.

Similarly, one of the most dastardly and disgusting attacks has recently been made upon Paul H. Nitze, one of the authors of the Marshall Plan, by the Society for the Prevention of World War III, Inc. Nitze is one of the more competent young men in our government, a former banker connected with Dillon, Read, which gave this country James Forrestal, secretary of defense, and Ferdinand Eberstadt, who assisted Bernard Baruch to write the American Atom Bomb Plan.

The extremely long and violent attack on Nitze charges him with no crime except that he had a father and that "he was not born a banker." His father was once chairman of the department of romance languages and literature at the University of Chicago, but, according to the report, he was "defending Germany after World War I." Also Paul's mother, Anna Sophie Hilken, was of a prominent Baltimore family of German origin and her father became German consul general in Baltimore at the age of 83.

Precisely what has that to do with Paul Nitze's ability to serve his country in the year 1948? One might as well say that because his mother-in-law is former Congresswoman Ruth Pratt, once a member of the Republican National Committee, he ought not to serve his country in a Democratic Administration.

Suppose everything this society, which continues to spread hatred in the world, has to say about Paul Nitze's father is true, what has that to do with Paul? Under our way of life, sons are not collectively guilty with their fathers.

FLYERS FOR PALESTINE—American aviators with World War II experience—and there are thousands of them out of work or looking for better jobs—are being recruited for combat service in Palestine.

The United States says that citizens who go abroad to fight for a foreign force abandon all right of protection by American law and force.

However, the government "looked the other way" in the case of citizens fighting in the early days of the Sino-Jap war and the Spanish civil war.

The Flying Tigers who helped China hold off the Japs in 1940-42, were largely military aviators on inactive duty, and some had to be placed on inactive duty before they could go abroad.

Spanish Loyalist flyers were recruited more openly. One famous American aviator signed up recruits daily in a fashionable New York hotel.

Recruiting by the Israel forces has not reached such an open stage, but a competent pilot who wants to fly for the Jewish forces does not have to look far for a job.

PEACE FIASCO—Diplomatic observers believe that the United States-Russian "peace talk" fiasco has further widened the breach between the two countries.

On the United States side, both the State department and the White House are completely convinced the Russian "acceptance" of a conference was not asked for, and the method of making the acceptance public was no more than a tongue-in-cheek propaganda maneuver.

As a result, Moscow's moves will be viewed with even more suspicion in the future. On the other side, the Soviets now have ample ammunition for their argument that the United States is more concerned with "imperialism" than peace.

They can, and undoubtedly will, argue that if the United States does not want to sit down at a conference table, peace is not desired.

WILL HIRE—The Commerce department is having employment troubles—in the $10,000-a-year bracket. Former Secretary W. Averil Harriman took several top men with him when he became roving ambassador for ECA. Now his successor, Charles E. Sawyer, is finding it difficult to fill the vacancies.

Men who have been contacted feel that the jobs might be temporary. They reason that if a Republican is elected in November they'll be out. So they ask why should they leave their businesses to take what may be a temporary position with the government.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

COUNTING IS THE KEY

MANY READERS of bridge columns are able to understand the fanciest and most intricate plays, and spot the opportunity for them, if they know the cards of all four hands. It is the real bridge player, however, who figures them out when only two hands are in view—his own and the dummy. In that situation, he often has to infer the location of certain hidden honors and suit lengths from the bidding and the early play. Often the key to his choice of plays is his counting of the suit-lengths in the other hands, sometimes exact counting, sometimes tentative counting and sometimes only approximate counting.

This deal is one of the fine examples of card-reading, definite or probable, given in the splendid new kind of book, "How's Your Bridge Game?" by Florence Osborn, who as bridge columnist for the New York Herald Tribune and other newspapers has aided everybody and everything good connected with the greatest of games. Each of the instructive deals is presented first in the form of just what a player actually sees—his own hand and the dummy. Then he is asked to figure out the course of action. When Florence gives the solution, she shows all four hands, as in the deal above, and enables the reader to score his own solution against the most expert play. It is truly one of the great bridge books of all time, including also a lot of keen bidding problems. Every bridge devotee, from the worst to the best, can enjoy it and profit from it.

To get her idea, suppose you cover the East and West hands, with your thumbs or otherwise. West leads the heart 9 to the 10 and South holds up the K, then must win with it when the K is returned. That lead obviously is to leave West a heart for a third-south lead. South has eight sure tricks in sight and of course must not let the opponents in until he has his ninth. The key is his reading that East, with so many hearts, is probably short in the minors; West surely must guard them both.

So South puts East back in with a heart to run the rest of the suit. This pares West down. When a spade is returned, South takes three of the suit. On the last West must discard from his three each in the minors. Whatever he throws builds the ninth trick for South. It is a neat suicide squeeze.

SYNOPSIS

When his beloved grandfather died, Paul Andrew Delacourt, as the last of his family, should have inherited vast fortune, but instead he received a mere five thousand dollars. His grandfather, aware of Paul's secret desire to make his own way in the world, left his millions to charity. After promising to keep in touch with his grandchild since childhood, Paul sets forth, vowing to settle down wherever his fifteenth birthday took him. Thus he came to the small New England town of Brandford, and as Andrew Paulson, architect, secured lodgings at the modest home of Mrs. Potts, who with her teenage daughter, Gloria, lived on the outside of town. Later, while lunching at The Lodge, Brandford's only hotel, he came to the aid of attractive Joan McClure when she turned over the lumberyard, he learned that Louis Baron, hard-driving contractor, might have need of an architect. Baron, however, proved so insulting that the interview ended in a fight. Andrew, discouraged about finding employment, discussed the idea of buying a farm with Mrs. Potts and Bigelow, who had arrived that afternoon with expensive looking car suspiciously, but Andrew explained he had purchased it second-hand.

CHAPTER NINE

ANDREW went to church on Sunday. He hadn't intended to, but he had a sneaking suspicion of what it would mean to Gloria to ride up in the cream-colored convertible, and his kind heart did the rest. As a matter of fact, Mrs. Potts was almost speechless with pride as her daughter, and when they arrived—"Early is better," Gloria had said, "because then you can park square in front of the church and everybody will be wondering who owns that wonderful car, and then when we come out, they'll see"—there were only a few people there.

One of them, an imposing woman with a commanding presence, was arranging the flowers near the pulpit. She nodded briefly at the Potts, including Andrew in her general welcome. But she suddenly paused and gave him a second glance. As she sailed up the aisle toward their pew, he had a momentary urge toward flight. Had she recognized him? Why was her beaming gaze bent on him with such intensity?

"You're new," she said, grasping his hand with one of her own firm ones. "I'm glad to see you here. I'm Mrs. Woodford."

It was as if she had said, "I'm the Queen," there was so much regal assurance in it. He realized nevertheless that he was being paid a compliment.

"It is so kind of you to welcome me," he said simply.

"I'll tell you about them later," Mrs. Woodford said at once. "Too many old women trying to run things! If that isn't the limit! As if anybody'd have a chance to run anything with her around!"

"I gathered as much. Does she preach the sermons, too?" Gloria giggled, and her mother turned on her fiercely, smothering her. "Not yet," she answered Andrew, "but she lets the minister know after every service just what could have been better. It takes a spunky preacher to stick it out here. But I will say," Mrs. Potts added with an air of impartiality, "that she likes 'em spunky."

She looked at her roomer with a speculative eye. "She's a good person to get on the right side of—no doubt about that, and if there was any business to be had, she'd know it and throw it your way. So she's a person to cotton up to." She saw that Andrew was not really listening and followed his glance toward the front of the church. Joan and her mother had just come in, and were seating themselves.

"Those are the McClures," Mrs. Potts whispered. "Awful, nice people, but a little stiff-necked. The girl, anyway. Her mother's as nice as they come."

"Stiff-necked?" Andrew repeated, puzzled. There had been nothing like that, the one time he had met her.

"I'll tell you about them later," Mrs. Potts promised, and he had to be content with that.

But he was glad he was sitting in the rear of the church, glad that he could watch Joan's dark hair, curled under at the ends, sway gently whenever she turned her head. He studied her erect posture, the trim neatness of her shoulders and waist, the dashing air with which she wore her little felt hat. It did not occur to him that he had seen many lovely girls—girls whose grooming was superlative, whose figures were perfect—without ever having experienced this warm delight.

Gloria sidged through most of the service, hardly able to wait for the time to come when she and her mother and Andrew could ing in my nose.

"Oh, then you're the young man George Roland was talking about. He said you were an architect. What a shame that our house is so solidly built—we might have had something for you. I'd die before I'd let that Baron man come near my home! Of course, there's the summer place, and we have talked for years of having an all for guests, but Huntley has been growing more and more anti-social—I tell him he might just as well live in a cave and growl at people—and I suppose if I started to put an ell on the house he'd simply go mad! But perhaps we'll find something. Oh, Mrs. Alken, you're just the person I want to see..." She went down the aisle, leaving confusion and the odor of violet sachet in her wake.

Andrew turned to Mrs. Potts for enlightenment, and was surprised to see that her usually impassive face was writhing in the effort to suppress a wide smile. She flicked a glance at him and said, under her breath, "Too many old women trying to run things! If that isn't the limit! As if anybody'd have a chance to run anything with her around!"

"I gathered as much. Does she preach the sermons, too?" Gloria giggled, and her mother turned on her fiercely, smothering her. It did not occur to him that he had seen many lovely girls—girls whose grooming was superlative, whose figures were perfect—without ever having experienced this warm delight.

Gloria sidged through most of the service, hardly able to wait for the time to come when she and her mother and Andrew could stroll grandly out to the waiting car.

By this time they were standing for the benediction, and she caught at her mother's hand. Mrs. Potts stood firm. She had a duty to do, and she meant to do it. Andrew Paulson must meet some of the townspeople. So Gloria went out to the cream-colored convertible alone, with a proud self-conscious step.

"You must meet Miss Campbell," Mrs. Potts said, pulling Andrew up the aisle. But someone pounced on his landlady before they had gone ten feet. "What are you bringing to the Family Supper next week, Emma? We're counting on at least one of your pies, and couldn't you make us some muffins, too?"

Andrew went on alone, his eyes fixed on Joan and her mother. By stationing himself where they would have to pass, and by using a sort of elementary hypnosis, he managed to come within her range of vision. She smiled at him. "Good morning! You're Mr. Paulson, aren't you? Also said you were staying in town for good, I believe."

"I hear there's going to be a Family Supper," he said with his most winning manner. "Would you and your mother come as my guests?"

He saw Joan's startled look. Had he been too precipitate? She smiled uncertainly, and her eye sought her mother's. But Mrs. McClure had not heard the invitation; she was busily chatting with a friend. "Please come," he said quickly. "It's no fun being a stranger at one of these affairs and I'm sure Mrs. Potts will be busy with the kitchen end, and I'll be completely dependent on Gloria."

She laughed at that. "It might be a little strenuous," she admitted. "All right, I'll speak for Mother. I know she had planned to come, so we'll come with you. Thank you." Her eyes sparkled suddenly. "Are you getting tired of Selma's cooking?"

"Selma?" Andrew's face was blank. "I've been eating at the Cozy Nook and the Lodge."

"Selma's the cook at the Lodge," Joan told him.

"Oh! No, she's a good cook, but I am getting tired of having to trot into town for every meal but breakfast. It's a nuisance."

Giants Take Lead With Heavy Stick

NEW YORK, June 8—The pen is mightier than the sword, and in baseball extra base hits are more potent than singles.

That point, which may well tell the story of the National League pennant race this year, was aptly illustrated in two of last night's games which saw the St. Louis Cardinals replaced by the new York Giants as National League leaders.

The Cards were beaten, 5 to 1, by the Phillies in a game in which homers accounted for all the scoring. Dick Sisler whacked two circuit clouts, each time with a man on base, against his former mates, and Del Ennis also got one for the Phils.

The Cards got only five hits, including Stan Musial's homer, off Dutch Leonard, the bald-headed knuckle ball refugee from the old man's home. Pitcher George Munger took the official rap for the losers but the Cards lost primarily for the same reason they have dropped too many other decisions this season—they didn't hit.

THE GIANTS, on the other hand, never seem to stop hitting. They collected no less than nine extra base hits in outslugging Pittsburgh, 9 to 5.

This bevvy of bingles included two homers, four triples and three doubles. It saved the hide of Larry Jansen, their ace pitcher, who was knocked out of the box.

Boston's Braves, like the Giants, gradually are overtaking the Cardinals because they really are powdering that pill. Jim Russell got two homers and Phil Masi socked one as the Braves downed the Chicago Cubs, 9 to 5. Russell drove in five tallies, equal to Chicago's entire output.

It was Chicago's sixth straight defeat. The Bruins tried to strengthen themselves last night by acquiring infielder Gene Mauch from Brooklyn on waivers, and also may swing a deal for Billy Cox of the Dodgers, now that the Brooklyn brain trust is experimenting with Jackie Robinson at third base.

Tommy Holmes of the Braves went hitless after having connected safely in 17 consecutive games.

In the American League, Washington took undisputed possession of fourth place by swamping tail-end Chicago White Sox, 7 to 1, in a night game.

The Senators, however, are far in the rear of the third-place New York Yankees, who lost to the St. Louis Browns, 5 to 3. Ned Garver, a rookie, went the route for the winners. The Browns won by scoring two runs in the ninth, thanks mainly to Yankee errors, and snapped their six-game losing streak and breaking New York's string of four straight wins.

William E. Wins

CHICAGO, June 8—William E. won the $1,500 divided trot at 1-16 miles, the feature race at the Maywood Park harness racing program last night, after placing second in the first section of the race, a mile event.

Sid Gordon, Unlike Old Mule, Changes Stance, Becomes Star

NEW YORK, June 8—Some baseball players manage to stick around in the big leagues because unlike the mule in Joe Miller's joke book they are willing to change their mind to get ahead in the world.

Every time the mule saw a stone wall, he would charge into it head on at full speed, then gather his bashed brains together, trot back to the starting line and give a repeat performance, ad infinitum.

The only explanation for this behavior that could be given by the mule's owner was that the animal "just didn't give a gosh darn."

The modern ball player, if he is smart, does give a gosh darn, and instead of continuing to butt into a stone wall when he finds himself out of a job, is sensible enough to do something constructive about the situation.

For instance, Bucky Walters, Cincinnati's grand old veteran, converted himself from a third baseman into one of the great pitchers of our time.

BOB LEMON of Cleveland, who formerly was an infielder and an outfielder, also had to switch to pitching to achieve stardom.

Brewers Set To Shave Down Indians' Lead

By International News Service

The Milwaukee Brewers, pre-season favorites in the American Association, took up the chase today of the elusive Indianapolis Indians.

The improving Brewers have climbed from the second division to second place. They can't whack away all of Indianapolis' 5 1/2-game league lead in the current three-day stand, but they can strengthen their challenging position.

Indianapolis will be traveling through the western half of the league for the next 10 days. During the same period, Milwaukee will be enjoying a home stay.

Third place Columbus makes a one-night stand at Minneapolis tonight before shifting to St. Paul for a series with the fourth place Apostles. St. Paul is at home to Louisville tonight.

In the other Association contest, Toledo seeks to defend its sixth position at Kansas City.

CLEVELAND, June 8—Adele Spudis, 19-year-old Cleveland high school graduate, makes her professional wrestling debut tonight against Jean Miller in a special event on Jack Ganson's mat show at Cleveland's Central Armory.

Kids Softball Loop Plays 'If They All Get There'

"Aw, sheddap and pitch the ball!"

That is the way arguments are handled in "Central Ohio's hottest softball league"—the Circleville Kids League which Monday inaugurated its 1948 schedule.

That schedule is for five teams ("we couldn't get up another outfit") and it holds forth every morning on Corwin school grounds.

And the schedule will run indefinitely—"until we get tired." Teams in the league are named, generally, after the lad who happens to have a couple of extra softball bats or who "rounds up eight other guys" to form a team.

Teams are called: the Tomlinsons, City Cabs, Davises, Weavers and Herald Carriers.

THE LATTER two teams, the Weavers and the Herald Carriers, opened the season Monday when the Herald lads pulled out from behind and tallied a 9-8 decision.

Dick Rhoads and Bob Turner were pitcher and catcher respectively. It was Turner's big bat and agile footing which made victory.

Pitcher Rhoads ("I don't know how many hits they got; nobody keeps score") came up to bat in the last of the seventh inning with his team on the short end of an 8-7 score.

Rhoads singled and rode home when Turner doubled. Then Turner stole home with the game-winning run. He had connected with a pair of triples earlier in the game.

Manager-pitcher of the Weavers was Dick Weaver while his battery-mate was Bob Davis, a lad with a terrific punch at the plate—he got the only homerun of the game.

The league is to continue its battles this week.

Tuesday's schedule is rather indefinite. The Davises and the Herald crew have promised to be on hand about 10 a. m.

City Cabs and Tomlinsons 'will play Wednesday morning if all the guys get there,' one league spokesman declared.

What about league officials?

THERE ARE none. Kids do not need them, it seems. It appears that it is only when they get old and decrepit that they run into disputes they cannot settle among themselves.

They do have an umpire. He is generally "the biggest guy who shows up." Any adult present will be pressed into service.

What about any broken windows in the neighborhood? The kids are not worried about that. "nobody can hit a ball that far," one declared.

Wet Grounds Postpone Play In City League

Play in the Circleville Night Softball League will be resumed Tuesday night after a layoff Monday because of wet grounds.

The Tuesday night match will be between Boyers and Millirons, fifth and sixth place teams respectively in the six-team league.

The Boyers record stands at two losses in three starts so far, while Millirons has dropped all three of its contests played.

Mumaws and Boyds, two of the four teams tied for league leadership with two wins and one loss each, vie for the chance to tie with the winner of the Tinks-Isalys game, slated to be played before the Thursday exhibition tilt.

LEAGUE officials said Tuesday they had not been notified who would play in the Thursday and Friday exhibition night matches, but were assured there would be outside teams here those two nights.

Game time for the regular league contests and Friday night's exhibition match is set at 8:15 p. m., while the makeup game between Tinks and Isalys is to begin at 7:15 p. m. Thursday.

Godoy Awaited In Columbus For Richard Battle

COLUMBUS, June 8—Arturo Godoy will arrive in Columbus Thursday to complete training for his June 14 10-rounder with the local heavyweight, Pat Richard.

Al Weill, manager of the veteran South American, wired Promoter Al Haft of his fighter's plans and appended this postscript:

"Richard will be lucky to last five rounds this time, because Arturo is hitting much sharper than he did in the last fight when he 'coasted' to victory."

Godoy took a unanimous decision from the younger ex-Marine in February.

Richard's management predicted a better performance by the big Irishman, who will enter the ring at 190 pounds, about 15 more than the last time he met Godoy.

Manager Les Huffman revealed that Richard has dropped out at Ohio State university for an all-out effort to better himself in fistic circles.

Jockey At Ascot Scores With 6

AKRON, June 8—Bobby Mitchell was the talk of the racing circles today after booting home six winners in the two-day-old meet at Ascot Park near here.

The young jockey brought in three winners on opening day Saturday and rode three more home yesterday.

Mitchell rode Pigeon Gold in the third race yesterday and was never headed. In the sixth he piloted African Sun to win and then jockeyed Blackship across the finish line in the seventh.

District NCAA Pairings Made

CHAMPAIGN, Ill., June 8—Pairings for Friday's NCAA District Four baseball playoffs today pitted Illinois against Ohio university and Michigan against Western Michigan.

Winners of the two games at Champaign will meet Saturday for the right to represent the district in the eastern eliminations at Winston-Salem, N. C., June 15 to 18.

switch, of a different kind, is Sid Gordon of the New York Giants.

Gordon, as an outfielder, would have been good enough to be a regular with any other major league club, but found himself frozen out of the New York outfield due to the presence of such stalwart fly-chasers as Willard Marshall, Whitey Lockman and Bobby Thomson.

Sid, instead of giving up, stole Lucky Jack Lohrke's third base job by improving his already healthy batting average with a new batting stance.

It was Coach Ralph Kress, serving as a pitcher in batting practice, who tipped Gordon's mitt.

Kress told Gordon that if he would move closer to the pitcher, instead of standing as far back in the batters' box as possible, he could become a pull hitter.

Gordon took the advice, with amazing results. He started laming the ball to leftfield out of the reach of outfielders who had been playing him in left center to right.

Now, instead of wasting his power, he is hitting to dead left, often over the fence. Sid is leading the Giants in home runs and batting.

Czar Of Music Raps Labor Laws

ASBURY PARK, N. J., June 8—President James C. Petrillo of the American Federation of Musicians charged today that anti-labor legislation has been enacted to break unions.

Petrillo told more than 1,000 delegates at the organization's 51st annual convention that "there is no more free labor movement in this country. He declared:

"We're shackled. Today we can't fight back without getting our brains beat out. We're back to the injunction days of years ago."

NEW YORK, June 8—The New York Daily Mirror said today that ammunition handlers in the New York port of embarkation have been "alerted for assignment."

According to The Mirror the men who handled much of the shells and explosives during World War II, will be sworn to secrecy and have been instructed to attend orientation lectures.

Russians Blamed For Benes Move

PARIS, June 8—A prominent Czech refugee charged today that the same Soviet official who master-minded the Communist coup in Prague engineered the resignation of President Eduard Benes.

The refugee, Vratislav Busek, who helped Benes write the original Czech constitution asserted: "I knew days ago that Benes would go because of the arrival in Czechoslovakia of Valerian A. Lorin. There is always a Russian hand-leader on the spot."

Zorin, Soviet deputy foreign minister, was in Prague in February during the Communist seizure of power. His mission was ostensibly to supervise the distribution of Russian wheat.

Officials Decline Hand In Strike

SPRINGFIELD, June 8—City commissioners of Springfield held today that the community's poor financial condition prevented them from taking over the strike-bound city Bus Lines, Inc.

Representatives of the striking 137 AFL bus drivers who tied up the city's transportation yesterday, made the suggestion at a commission meeting last night.

The commissioners said Springfield's financial condition made the suggestion "impossible at this time" and added that the city had no part in the dispute and had not even been included in the negotiations going on since Feb. 1.

200 Boy Scouts To Participate In District Camporee

Scioto River Site Named For Affair

Friday, Saturday Schedule Readied

More than 200 Pickaway County Boy Scouts are expected to attend the District Camporee Friday and Saturday along the Scioto river on the William Barthelmas farm on Route 104.

The Scouts are to make camp at 1 p. m. Friday at the site with all scouting equipment in their possession.

After the camp has been made, Scouts will begin a series of events related to outdoor living, including use of the compass, nature study, trail, knot tying, signalling and adjustment to the outdoors in general.

The Camporee is open to all registered Boy Scouts and their "dads" who wish to accompany them.

For their participation in all the events scheduled, the patrols of each troop will be awarded ribbons denoting their various skills in the outdoors.

A BLUE STREAMER is to be awarded the troop which successfully completes all the events and perform a suitable stunt at campfire festivities.

White streamers will be awarded the patrol which completes a majority of the events slated, and individual prizes will be given Scouts recommended for their performances by their Scoutmaster.

Saturday will be the big day for the campers, who will arise from their pup-tents at 7 a. m. to clean up on their camping activities.

At 10 a. m. Saturday the boys will hear a speech by State Highway Patrol Corp. Tony Schmeig, who is to tell the boys of the importance of Scouting and their usefulness as citizens.

After the speech, the boys will cook their own lunches and enter the last phase of the outdoor craft events, followed by an inspection. Camp will be broken at 4 p. m.

Czar Of Music Raps Labor Laws

ASBURY PARK, N. J., June 8—President James C. Petrillo of the American Federation of Musicians charged today that anti-labor legislation has been enacted to break unions.

Petrillo told more than 1,000 delegates at the organization's 51st annual convention that "there is no more free labor movement in this country. He declared:

"We're shackled. Today we can't fight back without getting our brains beat out. We're back to the injunction days of years ago."

Columbus Votes On Payroll Tax

COLUMBUS, June 8—An estimated 40,000 to 45,000 Columbusites went to the polls today to decide whether to keep or reject their controversial one-half-of-one percent corporation-payroll income tax.

The tax, designed to raise nearly $3 million to operate the city's public service divisions and pay old debts during the next five years, became effective last Jan. 1. A referendum petition was initiated by the Franklin County CIO Council.

Ammo Handlers Called. Report

NEW YORK, June 8—The New York Daily Mirror said today that ammunition handlers in the New York port of embarkation have been "alerted for assignment."

The move may indicate, the newspaper reported, that the United States is planning to lift its embargo on arms shipments to the Holy Land.

According to The Mirror the men who handled much of the shells and explosives during World War II, will be sworn to secrecy and have been instructed to attend orientation lectures.
